

The field of battle at Annapolis when the Navy team beat Princeton by the score of 13 to 0. The sailors' fast and varied attack carried all before them.

International.

Capt. W. R. Allen and his mount, Rusten Bey, a full blooded Arabian, winners of the 300 mile mounted service endurance test from Camp Vail, N. J., to Washington.

(c) Underwood & Underwood.

The Navy has the ball on Princeton's 35 yard line and scores the only touchdown of the game.

(c) Keystone View Co.

The seagoing goat mascot of the Navy eleven, with its custodians, Midshipman Mee (left) and Midshipman Candler.

(c) Keystone View Co.

(c) Kadel & Herbert.

This Angora kitten, which won a $500 prize at the Mont Rouge show, Paris, was bought by an American and will be brought to the United States.

Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick, American Red Cross worker, after months in a Soviet prison, returned to this country on the Kronland. He went to his home at Uniontown, Ala.

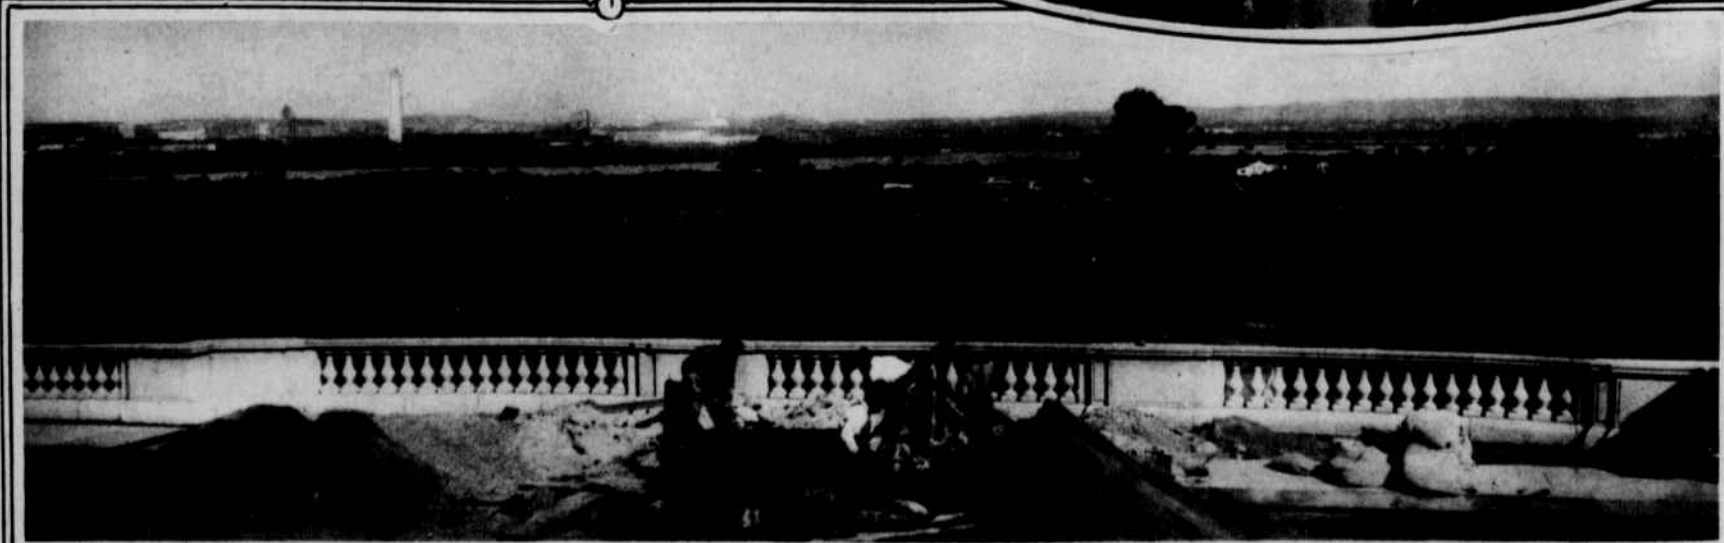

Above—In the game between Columbia and New York University Columbia won, 19 to 0. The photo shows Koppisch, Columbia halfback, going through the line for a touchdown.

International.

Foreign members of the Military Board of Allied Supply are due to arrive this week from France, where this photo was taken. Left to right: Gen. Enrico Merone, Italian Army; Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, A. E. F.; Brig.-Gen. Charles Jean Marie Payot, chairman of the board, French Army; Major-Gen. Reginald Ford, British Expeditionary Forces; Col. Adolphe Cumont, Belgian Army.

Preparing the grave of the Unknown American Soldier, who will be buried in the national cemetery at Arlington, Nov. 11. The spot is a beautiful one in the hills of Virginia overlooking the city of Washington.

(c) Harris & Ewing.

Dean Gildersleeve accepting in behalf of Barnard College the Helen Hartley Jenkins Geer memorial gateway erected in front of Students' Hall.

Underwood & Underwood